The AIACD is excited to announce our August program. We have invited Chase Rief, Chief Marketing Officer with Early Warning Labs (EWL). Early Warning Labs, LLC (EWL) is an Earthquake Early Warning technology developer and integrator located in Santa Monica, CA. EWL is partnered with industry leading GIS provider ESRI, Inc. and is collaborating with the US Government and several university partners. EWL is investing millions of dollars over the next 36 months to complete the final integration and delivery of Earthquake Early Warning to individual consumers, government entities, and commercial users.

EWL's mission is to improve, expand, and lower the costs of the existing earthquake early warning systems. In addition, EWL has partnered with the USGS to develop a powerful technology that gives people time to take cover and creates automated responses for businesses, transportation & machinery to prevent massive damage.

This program qualifies for 1.5 AIA CES HSW LU's.
